I can relate to that. When I went to post the few around my house, I ran into the same issue. Although the locations are known to be haunted, there are very few specifics.

But then I guess thats where we all come in. To put more specifics on the long standing claims.

I would like to ask each and everyone on this site to research, and add one new haunted location in our "Haunts" directory. Please add the address, description, and any pertinent paranormal related information to that location. We would like to get a comprehensive list of every paranormal location.
