OUT OF BODY EXPERIENCES

I was able to do it once and quite by accident. Don't really remember what happened, only the hard thud of me landing on my bed. Never really tried again after that.

OUT OF BODY EXPERIENCES

Good article I like it. I did that only once where I was all the way out not half way out, I was laying in bed and I was drifting into sleep and I notice I was getting lighter and I open my eyes and I was up top the ceiling I looked down and I saw me there sleeping and I looked up and the ceiling opened up and I was going up more into a black hole where the sides of this place had chambers and people were in them living. I got scared and yelled out and I flew back to my bed and I felt me hitting hard and I woke to me and I gasp for air and could not sleep the rest of the three days with out the light on it was the scary to me..have not done that anymore..

I had experiences like that before but usually only when dreaming... or so quick that I wasn't sure if it were an out of body experience or not. I feel definitely the most vulnerable at those times but its not something that I could control and always happened in a situation of fear.
