I would love to be a part of an investigation with a team in the Houston area. I have not training with much other than DSLR photography!

Good evening Osty!

That's as good a start as any, means that you most likely have the photographic angle down pat. Time to get a few investigations under your belt.

That is my hope, but would like to do it with a group. Figure finding a standing group would be best as they have some experience and I could kind of learn from others. I learn things quickly and do have lots of good computer skills.
