New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls

Posted by crystalcross - 06 Jan 2012 03:31

So, I've added a new category in the forums called "The Paranormal Inquisition". This area is for you to post your own polls for everyone to respond to.

How does it work?

Well, when you first create your topic here in the list of icons above the smiley's you will see an icon with three color bar graph bars. Click that to define your poll for the topic.

A new set of lines will open up. One line will ask the poll topic. This is where you will enter your poll question. The main theme behind the poll.

Next, you will click the little green "+" symbol after the title. Click this once for every possible answer you want to include in the multiple choice area. If you click it too many times, you can always click the red "-" to remove the last one. Then simply fill in the "Options" with the possible replies.

If you want to put in a poll time limit, click the Date/Time select button underneath the pool title.

Then you can include a message to the topic to explain what the poll is about or add any additional materials. Much like I did in this message. Remember to answer the poll in this message.

==========

Re: New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls

Posted by Steven Matrix - 06 Jan 2012 03:37

---

crystalcross wrote:

So, I've added a new category in the forums called "The Paranormal Inquisition". This area is for you to post your own polls for everyone to respond to.

How does it work?

Well, when you first create your topic here in the list of icons above the smiley's you will see an icon with three color bar graph bars. Click that to define your poll for the topic.

A new set of lines will open up. One line will ask the poll topic. This is where you will enter your poll question. The main theme behind the poll.

Next, you will click the little green "+" symbol after the title. Click this once for every possible answer you want to include in the multiple choice area. If you click it too many times, you can always click the red "-" to remove the last one. Then simply fill in the "Options" with the possible replies.

If you want to put in a poll time limit, click the Date/Time select button underneath the pool title.

Then you can include a message to the topic to explain what the poll is about or add any additional materials. Much like I did in this message. Remember to answer the poll in this message.

Very nice! You know however it's going to cause me to have to think more than normal.

==========

Re: New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls
Posted by crystalcross - 06 Jan 2012 03:39

Its food for thought!

Now don't forget the tip the waiter!

==========

Re: New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls
Posted by jbbiggs - 06 Jan 2012 03:44

I see that day job slipping away.....crystalcross wrote:

Its food for thought!

Now don't forget the tip the waiter!

==========

Re: New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls

Posted by Steven Matrix - 06 Jan 2012 03:51

_____

crystalcross wrote:

Its food for thought!

Now don't forget the tip the waiter!

How about this tip? We've go another location over here. You know, the one where we had all the cold spots? Let me know when you have time to go over there.

==========

Re: New Forum Category for your Personal System Polls

Posted by DarkCloud - 06 Jan 2012 04:33

_____

I think this is an awesome idea and allows all of us to not only open up our minds more but also use the intuitiveness and learning of others to help us on our paths.

==========